

PURITY

FROM SEDIMENTATION

Since the formation of the clay deposits during the Tertiary age, their water has been without any contact to ground or circulating waters. AQUA TERTIARY therefore is free from any anthropogenic influences or impurities.

The decisive difference between AQUA TERTIARY and recent water of today is the characteristic and clearly different ratio of the stable hydrogen and oxygen isotopes. This turns AQUA TERTIARY and thus our CLAYBORN WHISKY unique and unrepeatable.

CLAYBORN

WHISKY WITH HISTORY

A good whisky needs rest, time and exceptionally pure water to develop real potential. Refined with AQUA TERTIARY, the pure water untouched for 35 millions of years, we connect two worlds: a Westerwald Single Malt Whisky combined with AQUA TERTIARY, the other "Westerwald Original" that has never seen before. With this water an excellent single malt is turned to a whisky with history:

CLAYBORN WHISKY.

EXTRAORDINARY

Our whisky is protected from light and external influences in a bottle made of black glazed Westerwald stoneware.

The ideal gift, not only for whisky lovers. Made in the Westerwald from Westerwald raw materials and bottled in original Westerwald stoneware bottles - produced from Westerwald clays. For the production only local resources are used. You may use it e.g. for your business friends: CLAYBORN WHISKY as an ambassador from your region.

The first and only whisky with 35 million years old tertiary water from Westerwald clays.

FASCINATION CLAY

HANS-GEORG FIEDERLING-KAPTEINAT has been working with Westerwald clays for more than 40 years. As a geologist, he has traveled to almost every continent, bringing back not only clays but also whiskies from all over the world. The idea of a combination of both developed into AQUA TERTIARY and CLAYBORN WHISKY.
